Summary of Legislation: This bill provides that enterprise information technology equipment purchased after June 30, 2009, by an eligible business is exempt from personal property taxation for a period agreed to by a designating body (a county council or municipal fiscal body). The bill provides that before January 1, 2013, a designating body may adopt a resolution providing the exemption to a particular business. It requires that the designating body and the eligible business enter into an agreement concerning the property tax exemption and provides that the agreement must specify the duration of the property tax exemption and may specify that a transferee is entitled to the exemption on the same terms as the transferor. The bill specifies that the exemption continues for the period specified in the agreement, notwithstanding the January 1, 2013, deadline to adopt a resolution granting an exemption.

Effective Date: July 1, 2009.

Explanation of Local Expenditures:

Explanation of Local Revenues: Under this bill, a county or municipal fiscal body could grant a property tax exemption for new enterprise information technology equipment owned by an eligible business. If the property is located within a municipality, then the municipal fiscal body would be the designating body. The county fiscal body would be the designating body for property located in an unincorporated area. The designating body could adopt a resolution through December 31, 2012, to exempt property. The term of the exemption, however, could extend beyond 2012 and would have to be set in an agreement between the designating body and eligible business. The designating body would be required to give notice of the resolution and must hear all remonstrances and objections. A final resolution would be adopted after the hearing.

The bill defines enterprise information technology equipment as:

- (1) hardware supporting computing, networking, or data storage function, including servers and routers;
- (2) networking systems having an industry designation as equipment within the "enterprise" or "data center" class of networking systems that support the computing, networking, or data storage functions; and
- (3) generators and other equipment used to ensure an uninterrupted power supply to such hardware and networking systems.

Enterprise information technology equipment does not include computer hardware designed for single user, workstation, or departmental level use.

The bill also defines an eligible business as an entity that meets the following requirements:

- (1) the entity is engaged in a business that operates one or more facilities dedicated to computing, networking, or data storage activities;
- (2) the entity is located in a facility or data center in Indiana;
- (3) the entity invests in the aggregate at least $10 M in personal property and real property in Indiana after June 30, 2009; and
- (4) the average employee wage of the entity is at least 125% of the county average wage for each county in which the entity conducts business operations.

The granting of any exemption under this bill would be a local decision and would be limited to new investments made after June 30, 2009. The exemption of newly acquired property would not affect the existing tax base. If there is an increase in development because of the exemption, then other property could be added to the tax base. If the exemption period set locally is shorter than the life of the property, then the value of the enterprise information technology equipment could eventually be added to the tax base. However, if one assumes that the investment would be made with or without the exemption, then the granting of the exemption under this bill could also eliminate the normal shift of the property tax burden from all taxpayers to the owners of the new property that would have occurred.
